

FIVE WOULD ADOPT "STOWAWAY MIKE"

News He Faces Deportation
Again Brings Offers to Assist Belgian Boy.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Many conflicting stories regarding "Mike" Gilhooley, the fifteen-year-old Belgian orphan and champion stowaway, buzzed around the office of Byron H. Thil, deputy commissioner of immigration, at Ellis Island yesterday.

It was reported that if Mrs. Carry really desired to send the boy back several government officials would step in and try to have him placed on the navy train ship. The officials said a declaration that the wished to become an American citizen probably would enable them to take this action.

The members of the A. E. F. who originally brought "Mike" here as a stowaway wanted to have him entered in the United States Training School at Newport. This plan may be carried out.

Immigration inspectors said they did not believe "Mike" was particularly happy in living at hotels. Word reached Ellis Island that he had described himself as "a poodle dog," who had to have a chained collar.

It was pointed out that the lad was not the sort who would like indoor life. He is a red-blooded fellow, keen for adventure and eager for companionship of other boys.

As a result of the stories published yesterday five applications to adopt "Mike" were made to the immigration officials yesterday. They said all five applications bore the name of Gilhooley. The applicants said that they could not bear to have a namesake sent away. The applications will be considered.

TRAIN KILLS THREE BOYS PLAYING BALL IN TRACK

DONORA, Pa., July 9.—Three boys were crushed to death near the American Athletic Field yesterday by a Pennsylvania railroad passenger train. They were John Matus, aged nine; John Dihakko, aged five, and Michael Odfinzhr, aged seven.

The boys' love for baseball was indirectly responsible for their death. A game was to have been played on the field, but owing to wet grounds was cancelled. Disappointed, the lads purchased a ball and proceeded to play with it along the tracks. So intent were they that they failed to notice the approach of the train.

The engineer made every effort to stop the train before it ran them down, but the speed was too great. The boys became confused, and, instead of running from the tracks, ran directly into the path of the train.

WIFE ASKS $100,000 OF "OTHER WOMAN"

Asserts Alleged Affinity Laughed at Her Tearful Plea to Release Husband.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Demanding $100,000 for the alleged alienation of her husband's affections, Mrs. Effie Elizabeth Jacobs filed a complaint in the supreme court yesterday. She told of begging with tears that Miss Mary M. Croke give up her husband, Monte F. Jacobs. Miss Croke laughed and refused, the wife says.

Mrs. Jacobs said when she threatened to bring the present suit Miss Croke said she would transfer her property at once, so the wife should not recover a cent. On the strength of this allegation and the filing of a bond for $250, Justice Donnelly signed a warrant of attachment, which was given to the sheriff to serve. Miss Croke is the owner of a building on West Eighty-eighth street and other property, affidavits said.

SAYS HIS LOVE GREW COLD.

Mrs. Jacobs, who is the mother of a daughter, Dorothy, thirteen, said she lived happily with her husband until two years ago, when he left her ostensibly to live with his mother. She said of her husband, "He was always inclined to have a proclivity for gambling," but he treated her and their child with affection until his love grew cold.

It was in May last, Mrs. Jacobs said, that while visiting her husband's mother, she found Miss Croke's address. She taxed her husband with this at their next meeting and forced him to admit, she says, that he had transferred his affections.

A week later, accompanied by a friend, Miss Lillie Byrnes, Mrs. Jacobs called at the home of Miss Croke and met Miss Croke's mother. While they were talking Miss Croke entered and, remarking, "I can take care of my own affairs," asked her mother to withdraw.

REFUSED TO GIVE HIM UP.

Mrs. Jacobs learned, she says, that Miss Croke and Jacobs had seen much of each other for five or six years.

The wife asked the other woman to give up Jacobs. Miss Croke replied, Mrs. Jacobs said, that she could as easily part with one of her limbs or one of her eyes.

The wife says Miss Croke admitted being engaged to a former employer of hers, who had given her much jewelry, cash, and the West Eighty-eighth street house. She said she had given up many men who had more money than Jacobs, and told the wife if she would consent to a divorce Jacobs and Miss Croke would be married immediately. The wife refused.

She says in her complaint: "She admitted giving my husband silk stockings, an expensive humidifier and jewelry. I pleaded with and entreated her to give him up. I begged her. I implored her with tears; but it was all of no avail."

WINDOW GLASS MAKERS HEAR WILLIAM B. COLVER

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 9.—The work of the Federal Trade Commission was described in detail yesterday by William B. Colver, a member of the commission, before the National Association of Window Glass Manufacturers. Commenting on the law of supply and demand, Commissioner Colver said it will not work without transportation.

As car shortage is largely responsible for present conditions, Commissioner Colver advocated that all additional and Government supplied equipment be handled as a unit, so that it may be mobilized in those sections of the country where seasonal movements of freight are on.

PARSON TACKLES WOOD ALCOHOL; SAVED BY PUMP

WAIKEGAN, Ill., July 9.—Real liquor isn't an antidote for the lumber yard cocktail, and therefore George Thomas, a traveling minister with a thirst, found his way into the Waukegan police station a very sick man.

He said he drank a pint of wood alcohol, believing he had stored away such large quantities of the real thing previously the wood brand would not hurt him. He denied having tried to commit suicide. A stomach pump saved the touring parson.

GOAT OR DOG IS "HORSE" UNDER TRAFFIC RULES

BOSTON, July 9.—Under the new street regulations, the very latest definition of what a horse is, or should be, describes the species as: "All domestic animals used as draft animals or beasts of burden; also cattle." So, if a goat or dog is attached to a cart he becomes a beast of burden, and, therefore, a horse. The same with cattle being driven through the streets.

Judge and Prosecutor Declare Volstead Law Perplexing to Them

BOSTON, July 9.—A United States commissioner and an assistant United States attorney yesterday declared they did not understand the Volstead act.

Fred Read, of Lawrence, at a hearing before Commissioner William A. Hayes on charges of selling whiskey, was asked by Assistant United States Attorney Lewis Goldberg if he had ever heard of the Volstead act.

The commissioner replied, "Yes, but I don't know what it means." To which the attorney responded that he did not need to be ashamed, because "we are all in the same class." The commissioner, leaning over from the bench, added: "And I'm in that class, too."

BIRTHS WILL COST MORE, SAYS ENGRAVERS' CHIEF

Marriage and Death Expense Also Raised With Increased Cost of Notices.

ATLANTIC CITY, July 9.—It is going to cost more to be born, to be married, and to die, according to the prediction of William W. Blaise, of Philadelphia, president of the National Association of Steel and Copper Plate Engravers, which is holding its tenth annual convention at the Royal Palace this week.

"The cost of all engraving, which, of course, includes birth, wedding and death announcements, will be increased," said Blaise. "The cost of labor and material has increased very much during the past year and so the price of the finished product must be higher."

Prohibition is largely responsible in the falling off of the volume of social engraving, said the speaker. This line of work has been cut nearly in half during the past year, while the commercial engraving has more than doubled. He said people did not seem to want to give banquets any more, and consequently there was little demand for the engraved menu cards and invitations of pre-prohibition days.

BARE KNEES AND TATTOO MARKS, LONDON FASHION

LONDON, July 9.—No sleeves, bare backs, insects tattooed on necks and half during the past year, while the commercial engraving has more than doubled. He said people did not seem to want to give banquets any more, and consequently there was little demand for the engraved menu cards and invitations of pre-prohibition days.

A smart young matron was noticed on Bond street the other day, attired in a black and white foulard and a short, accented pleated skirt. It was noted that as she stepped along the skirt gave a very good view of her knees—and these were bare, the decorative tops of her black silk stockings being turned down below the knees.
